Spending Review: Public Land

- Target for central government to deliver at least £15 billion of asset sales between 2015 and 2020 - at least £5 billion will be from land and property
- To achieve, a series of policy changes have been announced
  - a new Strategic Land Review, which will build on this right and invite input from industry and Local Authorities to help identify where further public sector land can be made surplus or redundant and sold to support construction and local growth
  - radically overhauling land sales, by centralising disposals in the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) to ensure land is released efficiently
