Sources of part-time vacancies

Our vacancy listings

The Career Development Centre provides comprehensive vacancy listings, including part-time opportunities. You can find these via our Prospects Net vacancy and events system accessible at:

careers.westminster.ac.uk

Other vacancy sources

There is also a section on our website for finding work by subject or sector: westminster.ac.uk/study/current-students/support-and-facilities/career-development-centre/finding-work/finding-work

Newspapers

Local newspapers sometimes advertise part-time vacancies and are usually available from newsagents, or a free local newspaper may be delivered to your home.

Film extras

Interested in films or television? You could earn some extra money appearing in shows as a background person. There are dedicated agencies that are looking for students to sign up for work like this. Some television and film companies like BBC, ITV, Cable and Satellite Channels may pay more, and overtime and unsocial hour rates are available for night and bank holiday work. For details, go to: universalextras.co.uk

Events and promotion

Could you provide excellent customer service, hospitality or stewarding support? Would you like to be involved with promotional work? Events recruitment companies often have continuous vacancies. You could try: admiralgroupp.com

University of Westminster Associates in Schools (UWAS)

OVER HALF THE RECRUITERS SAID THAT GRADUATES WHO HAVE HAD NO PREVIOUS WORK EXPERIENCE AT ALL ARE UNLIKELY TO BE SUCCESSFUL DURING THE SELECTION PROCESS AND HAVE LITTLE OR NO CHANCE OF RECEIVING A JOB OFFER FOR THEIR ORGANISATIONS' GRADUATE PROGRAMMES.

Talent Bank

The Talent Bank is an invaluable resource that provides students with paid temporary and part-time vacancies within the University of Westminster. For more information visit:

westminster.ac.uk/talent-bank

Speculative applications

Don't just respond to adverts – make some speculative applications.

Contacting an employer in person, by telephone or by sending a covering letter and CV is also a good way of finding part-time employment.

Shops, bars and restaurants often advertise vacancies in their windows. Just go in and enquire whether they have any vacancies available.

Networking

It is worth asking your friends how they got their job and if their employer needs any more staff. Let all your family and friends know you are looking for part time work and you may find you hear about jobs before they are advertised.

Want to check if you have the right to work?

The Student Employment policy of the University recommends students do not work more than 20 hours per week in term time. Many international students are able to work in the UK part time during their studies. To check whether you are eligible to work, visit the Student Advice website:
