This module focuses on the public realm from the perspective of urban design and planning. In the module students will have the opportunity to study and write about key theories and debates about public space. These include issues such as inclusion and exclusion, the 'publicness' of public space, identity, experience, movement, green spaces, crime, security and anti-social behaviour and different approaches to management. These are considered in an international context. The module is equally focused on practical examples and students will undertake a practical project to explore these issues 'on the ground' thereby enhancing their skills in critical evaluation and design appreciation.
